Dear Kurt,

We have had enthusiastic and positive responses to our recently completed remodeling. Here are some of the comments we have heard:

- This space is so much more open and welcoming now.
- The front porch looks like it has always been here; it matches perfectly.
- Wow!
- The meditation chapel is inviting and calming.

T&W did an excellent job for us in the re-design and re-construction of two of our entrances. Our building, constructed in the early 1950s, had cramped entrances and limited office space that were not adequate for our current activities and were unattractive. T&W helped us find a design that would solve our problems and stay within a budget our congregation could afford.

T&W's construction team completed most of the work within the planned time frame, and they were especially careful to work with and around our on-going programs. They were attentive to the needs of the participants in our adult day-care program, which met each day during the construction in rooms adjoining the construction area, and to the children in our early childhood program, when they returned before the construction was completed.

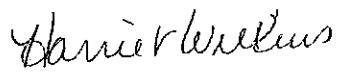

T&W's staff developed creative solutions for the unexpected problems that a remodel always brings, and they helped us reach good decisions when we had second thoughts about earlier choices. They kept communication lines open and were attentive to our concerns and requests.

We are very pleased by our work with T&W. We like our new, remodeled space, and we liked working with the company at all stages of the process.

Sincerely,

John Koppitch
