To Whom It May Concern:

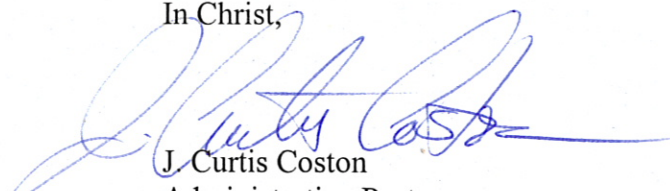

This letter is written with joy, excitement and satisfaction as I talk about the work of T&W's team of people on our church renovation project. Although by construction and renovation standards we believe this project was small, Kurt Williams, Steve Shehorn and the architect, Jon Byrum treated it with the care and concern of a multi-million dollar job. We felt important to them from the very beginning.

Kurt Williams really set the tone by listening (a lot!) to what we were trying to do in this neighborhood and through our ministry. He and Steve Shehorn listened enough to make the planning and discovery stage a joy. We uncovered things in that process that we didn't realize were important. We were able to take a non-traditional space (former office park) and make it work for a growing ministry with plenty of children.

The workmanship and quality of the job is excellent! Jeff Hasty the construction supervisor has been very accessible, responsive and knowledgeable. He has dealt with our staff with poise, concern and great professionalism. We will request for him to supervise our next phase. Our congregation has marveled at the look and functionality of the job accomplished. We believe we have received a great value for the money invested in this project. We are involved in a multi-phase project and have no issue using T&W for the next phase. We are looking forward to the continued relationship.

If you have any questions about our project or the process involved, please give me a call.

In Christ,

J. Curtis Coston
Administrative Pastor
